How Champions Have Gone Down to Defeat.

HISTORIC BATTLES OF PAST

INTERESTING DOPE ON SIX BIG CHAMPIONSHIP STRUGGLES.

There have been six big fights pulled off during the last few years, namely, those of Corbett-Sullivan, Fitzsimmons-Corbett, Jeffries-Fitzsimmons, Jeffries-Corbett, Jeffries-Fitzsimmons, Jeffries Corbett, The final rounds of these fights are sure to prove interesting reading

The first one tells of the big encounter between Sullivan and Corbett when the latter wrested the championship from the until then invincible John L.

Corbett-Sullivan-Sept. 7, 1902.

Round 21—Sullivan rushed, but Corbett stepped nimbly aside and smashed the big fellow's sore and bleeding nose with both fists, causing the blood to flow in a torrent.

Sullivan was bewildered and began to show sizns of early collapse. Corbett, smiling like a school boy, hooked a right-hander to the side of the head.

Corbett steadied himself. He sent a hard right to the ear and followed with hard right to the ear and followed with a terrific left to the jaw, and Sullivan sank unconscious to the floor of the ring. He was not knocked out, but was too exhausted to rise.

The round lasted a little over a minute and when finally Sullivan arose, bruised and bleeding, and staggering to the roges for support, moved his battered and swollen lips and said in a tone hoarse with chagrin and weakness:

'It's the old, old story. I am like the pitcher that went to the well once too often."

His voice broke and, gulping down a sob, he continued: "I can only say that am glad that I have been beaten by an Fitzsimmons-Corbett-March 17,

Round 14—Cofbett landed that left jab again on Fitz's head. Fitz countered with a terrific right swing on Corbett's neck, and he had Corbett going back for a few seconds. Fitz landed a terrible left-hand jab on Corbett's stomach and Corbett went to his knees with a frightful look of agony on his face.

The timekeepers called the seconds. "One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten," but Corbett came to his feet and rushed to Fitz and endeavored to strike him.

George Siler declared Fitzsimmons had won, Time—1:40.

Jeffries-Fitzsimmons-June 9, 1899. Round II—Fitz came up slowly, but assumed the aggressive. Jeff stood off, evidently waiting for a knockout.

They clinched three times. Coming to close quarters, Jeff put two hard rights over Fitz's heart, sending him back. Then Jeff sent a straight left to the neck, which he followed with a left to the chest. Fitz crowded in. He tried his right for the jaw, but was short. He, however, succeeded in blocking the Chifornian's return.

Jeffries-Corbett-May 11, 1900.

Round 23—After a couple of passes Jeff swing his right to Corbett's jaw and rushed him to a neutral corner. At close quarters Corbett hooked the left twice to the face, sending the blood spurting again from Jeff's face.

Jeff threw in two hard lefts to the body and sent the left again to Corbett's face, forcing Corbett's head back. Then Jeffries crowded Corbett to the rojes, and with a full swing left smash on the jaw sent Corbett rolling down and out.

Corbett's head struck the floor heavily and he rolled in a vain attempt to regain Jeffries-Fitzsimmons—July 25, 1902.

Jeffries forced the fighting at this stage, crouching low and carrying his right high und left far back. They rushed to a linch.

As Fitzsimmons stepped back he smiled and spoke to Jeffries, and before he could get out of reach Jeffries quickly hooked his left on the jaw, and Fitz went down on his back, and before he could get up the referee counted him out. Jeffries-Corbett-Aug. 14, 1903.

JEFF SAYS ROOSEVELT HAS TERRIFIC WALLOP

Richmond. Va., March 5.—Heavyweight Champion Jeffries, who "acted" Davy Crockett here, is a great admirer of President Roosevelt. He declared at the Richmond hotel that the president is the hardest lifter he ever saw outside the ring. He said he knows the president well and had sparred with him several times, and that his pluck made it a pleasure to stand before him. He is a man, said the champion, and invites you to come at him. He not only knows how to defend himself, but takes punishment without a murmur.

Ancient Game of England Has Now Become Thoroughly Americanized.

Americanized.

New York, March 5.—American golfers are making their presence felt in the golfing world every day. The golfers of Great Britain are now using American clubs and balls, and as a final advancement in the sport are lengthening their courses to meet the requirements of the American ball. The ancient game has scarcely been known in this country twenty years; still the progress made by the Americans in the past decade has placed them in the front rank.

When first introduced in this country everything pertaining to the game had to be imported. In fact, such was the case in the early '99s, until the game became more popular with the organization of the United States Golf association in 1894.

Since that time, however, the progress made by the Americans has been astonishing. The manufacture of clubs was taken up in this country and they were soon able to produce a cheaper and better article than could be had abroad, and it finally resulted in the demand for American clubs being so great that they came into general use abroad. The Americans then began experimenting with the ball which has revolutionized the sport.

A strong fight was at first made to prevent the American ball from being used abroad, but its merits were so vastly superior to the old gutta percha ball, then in general use, that it was impossible to crowd it out of the market, and the demand for balls was so great that they could not be manufactured fast enough to supply the demand in this country and abroad. The American golfers have now advanced so rapidly in playing skill that they are now almost on a par with the effect of the strength of the progress of the strength of the st

GREAT FIGHTS Courts of Spokane Give Different Decision From Farrell

A mandatory writ was issued Friday by Judge Huneke of Spokane compelling W. H. Lucas to turn over to the clerk of the court all books, accounts and papers in his possession which belonged to the Pacific National league. The writ was issued upon the filing of the suit instituted yesterday in the superior court by the Spokane Baseball & Exhibition company, the Salt Lake Baseball club, the Butte Baseball association and the Boise Baseball association against W. H. Lucas.

In the complaint it is charged that Lucas was an employe of the Pacific National league under salary and that prior to Jan. 1, 1995, he conspired secretly to injure the Pacific National league. It is charged that Lucas falsely represented that the league had dissolved, It is further stated that while acting in the employ of the league Lucas handled $20,000 and that he has refused to permit his accounts and books to be examined.

In the complaint an injunction is asked preventing Lucas from organizing any league in Washington, Idaho, Montana or Utah. A decree of the court is asked deleague in Washington, Idaho, Montana or Utah. A decree of the court is asked declaring the Pacific National league to be the beneficiary of any concessions obtained by Lucas from the National Association of Minor Baseball Leagues. Damages to the amount of $2,500 are also demanded.

HOW AND WHY ALCOHOL MAKES A MAN DRUNK

HEN alcoholic liquors are drunk the effect is, of course, first perceptible on the lips and tongue, then on the throat and stomach, and after the lapse of a short time, on the system in general," said a leading chemist the other day.

"This effect is slightly irritant in character, the degree of irritation depending on the proportion of alcohol present, the more alcohol the greater the irritation. New or recently made liquors contain more alcohol than do those that have been aged or kept a long time, because alcohol evaporates, leaving a purer and less intoxicating beverage, hence the exteem in which old wines and liquors are held.

"The first effect of liquor is a decidedly stimulating one. The heart muscle tones up and does more work. The blood courses more swiftly through the veins; the nerve centers and nerve fibers feel the stimulation, and the supply of blood to the brain is increased, thus stimulating the veins; thought, action and emotion.

The negotiation by the German government of a set of new trade treaties with Austria, France and Russia, extending to these counsidered with those of Europe.

The ambassador already has cautiously broached the subject here, but he is so well acquainted with the state of feeling in the United States senate towards reciprocity that he has not been able to report that the prospect is favorable for the consummation of a German-American reciprocity treaty.
